Dear FCC:

At a time where the world is in turmoil and the United States is at war any medium used to deliver news and commentary should be encouraged. By allowing the NAB to dictate what Americans can and have the right to listen to is akin to the state sponsored news media regulations imposed by totalitarian regimes around the world. The question for the FCC and Congress is in which direction are we heading? To allow the NAB to dictate what Americans can and should listen to is no different from censorship. The ability for Americans to hear comments and views from sources other than those proffered by the NAB is to allow Americans their right to form an opinion based on the open discussion of ideas. I trust the FCC will reject the petition 04-160 and hold true to those ideals which separate America from the censorship so often found in other state controlled media.

Sincerely,
Michael Gibson
